CELEBRATEA PROCESSION WITH A REPRE-SENTATION OF TOGO'S FLAG-SHIP A PART OF THE PARADE.WAILUKU, June 8.—Banzai was heard in every corner of Wailuku and Kahului on last Tuesday afternoon and evening, when all the Japanese celebrated in great style, the victory of Admiral Togo. Preparations for this celebration were going on quietly for the past week. A Japanese battleship, the "Mikasa," was rigged up, and Admiral Togo in the person of Horita, was in command of the flagship. The admiral was assisted by several gunners, who used the larger variety of fire crackers in place of the real article. However, this proved just as satisfactory, as the sight of stove-pipes on the side of this famous flagship frightened all the Russians that could be found in Wailuku. The battleship was propelled by mule power, and while the battleship did not appear to be a cruiser of the first-class, yet she succeeded in parading the streets of Wailuku at a speed of a mile an hour, which is probably the best speed yet attained on this island by a cruiser of the Japanese navy. Early in the afternoon of the 6th, a large number of hacks, in fact nearly all that could be obtained in Wailuku, formed a procession. These hacks contained the Mikado of Japan, General Oku, Marshal Oyama, General Kuroki, and the ministers to the Japanese Government, all in command of General Kodama, receiving his instructions from Marshal Oyama in the first hack. Following these prominent men were relatives and the general Japanese community.
There was no engagement however, the procession continued all afternoon, and lasted until late in the evening, when all congregated about Kalua avenue, the scene of festivities. The "Mi-kasa" had reached this destination long before the land forces, and the town of Wailuku was awakened to a real naval engagement.One feature of the festivities on Tuesday night was the Japanese war dance, performed by three Japanese dancers. This was thoroughly enjoyed by the large throng which gathered around the place to partake in the great celebration by the little brown men from the Mikado's land. The procession during the evening was prettily arranged, the Japanese lanterns on the sides of hacks, giving a beautiful aspect to the long train of carriages. At the place of celebration speeches were made by many prominent Japanese in the community, the opening address being made by Dr. T. Uemura. It was well into the night before the crowd dispersed, after having repeated Banzai between every speech.FISHING AS A BUSINESS.
WAILUKU, June 8.—F. Sommerfeld, for a long time employed as head of the Waiea section of the Wailuku Sugar Co. has resigned his position to take effect the 15th of this month. Mr.
Sommerfeld has been identified with the Wailuku Sugar Co. ever since his arrival in Wailuku, and has proved himself a valuable plantation man. His resignation is a matter of regret to his many friends. He has not yet made up his mind as to his plans, but he will move to Wailuku for the present, and is thinking somewhat of going into the fishing business on a business basis.
There is good money to be made out of this industry, he thinks, and it only awaits the right man to make a start.NARROW ESCAPE.
WAILUKU, June 8.—Mrs. A. N. Kepoikoi, Mrs. T. B. Lyons and two children, narrowly escaped death on last Tuesday morning, while on their way to Makawao, to attend the funeral of the youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. J.
N. K. Keola. Mrs. Kepoikoi was driving in company with those mentioned above, and while traveling on the beach road, the horse suddenly stumbled, breaking the cross-piece to the shaft of the buggy. Mrs. Lyons jumped off the vehicle when she noticed that the horse had stumbled, and did not sustain many injuries. The wheel of the buggy passed over her leg; beyond that she was not much injured. With Mrs. Kepoikoi however, in her effort to save the two children, she was thrown off the buggy and considerably bruised up. The children were not even scratched. Both Mrs. Kepoikoi and Mrs. Lyons were immediately carried to their homes and have been kept there since.

LAST SURVIVOR OF
THE WAR OF 1812EXTRAORDINARY PLANS MADE TO HONOR THE MEM-ORY OF THE LAST VETERAN OF THE WAR OF 1812, HIRAM CRONK, WHO DIED IN NEW YORK AT THE AGE OF ONE HUNDRED AND FIVE YEARS.Hiram Silas Cronk, the last survivor of the war of 1812 died May 15. His elder children attended the funeral services. Philander, aged eighty; William, seventy-two; Sarah, seventy-seven, and George, sixty-six. Their father was of humble birth, a shoemaker in the days of his activity. He was born in 1800 and was a mere lad when the British attacked the fort at Sackett's Harbor. He beat the call to arms and then served throughout the war as a drummer, showing a brave spirit under fire.Months ago preparations were made for suitable funeral arrangements.The board of aldermen of the city of New York paid a unique tribute to Hiram Silas Cronk of Ava, Oneida county, N. Y., some time before his death.The resolution of the Board declared that as all of Mr. Cronk's life had been spent in the state of New York, and in view of his honorable part in many battles of the war of 1812, it would be fitting that the chief city of the Empire State lead in honoring him by a soldier's burial, and that his remains lie in state in the city hall.Ald. Wirth said that he anticipated some little criticism, but explained his action with the statement that Mr. Cronk was an aged man and in feeble health. The governor of the state, Mr. Wirth said, had taken cognizance of the fact of Mr. Cronk's distinction as the sole survivor of the second war of the United States, and had notified the adjutant general of the state to send a proper detail of the National Guard to attend his funeral when he died. The board of aldermen of New York, Mr. Wirth is quoted as having stated, were busy men, and when Mr.
Cronk died they might not hear of it, and his remains would be consigned to the earth without that honor to which he seemed justly entitled.Mr. Wirth's associates on the board did not take the same view of the matter, however, and, on the motion of Alderman McCall, the board substituted the following:"That in the event of the death of Mr. Cronk the president of the board of aldermen take cognizance of the fact and appoint a committee to provide for a public funeral."The Secretary of War designated a company of infantry to act as a guard and signed the order on the day of the old man's death. The state also provided a military escort, Maj. Gen. Roe, commander of the National Guard, having the matter in charge. The plan brought up in the board of aldermen was merely in line with preparations already made on a larger scale.In addition to the preparations by the city, State and national authorities, the council of administration of the Society of the War of 1812 took up the matter and co-operated with the other authorities.
The man for whose funeral so much preparation was made lived quietly on a farm near Ava, in Oneida county, N. Y. In his annual report Mr. Eugene F. Ware, commissioner of pensions, made the following reference to Mr. Cronk:"On a small farm in Ava, N. Y., cleared by himself more than seventy-five years ago, Hiram Silas Cronk, the last pensioner of the war of 1812, is now living, attended by his daughter, Mrs. Sarah Crowley, herself quite an aged lady. Mr. Cronk was born April 29, 1800, but one would not believe that more than a century had rolled past him to see him sitting quietly in his home talking to his daughter, singing hymns and offering an occasional prayer for his own soul and all mankind.""Mr. Cronk enlisted at Western, N. Y., on August 4, 1814, when I was just a little more than fourteen years old, and on the same day his father, James Cronk, and two brothers, Casper and John, also enlisted, serving under Capt. Edmund Fuller in the defense of Sackett's Harbor.
At the close of the war the father and three sons were honorably discharged November 16, 1814."It is considered a singular coincidence that the last survivor of the war of the revolution was also a citizen of the state of New York. This soldier, Daniel F. Bakeman, died in 1869 at the age of 109 years. Mr.
Bakeman was a native of Schoharie county, N. Y., and died at Free-don, Cattaraugus county, N. Y. While there are no survivors of the revolution and only one of the war of 1812, Mr. Cronk, on the rolls of the pension bureau, there are three surviving pensioners of the revolution living and drawing pensions from the government. These pensioners are Esther S. Damon, widow of Noah Damon, who was a soldier in the continental army during the revolution; Sarah C. Harbutt, daughter of Elijah Weeks, and Rhoda Augusta Thompson, daughter of Thaddeus Thompson, both soldiers in the revolution. In the files of the pension bureau the following record of these three pensioners is found:"Esther S. Damon, Plymouth, Union, Vt., age, 90; pensioned as widow of Noah Damon, who served as private in the Massachusetts troops as follows: Six days, from April 19, 1775, in Captain Tucker's company; twenty-five days, from April 17, 1777, in Capt. Seth Sumner's company, Col. Benjamin Gill's regiment; two months five days, from May 15, 1777, in Capt. Moses French's company, Col. Jonathan Ticomb's regiment; two months twenty-two days, from December 10, 1777, in Capt. Thomas White's company, Col. Edward Proctor's regiment; two months twenty-five days, from April 9, 1778, in Capt. Benjamin Lapham's company, Col. Nathaniel Clapp's company, Col. Benjamin Howe's regiment; nine days, from February 5, 1779, in Capt.
Abner Crane's company, colonel not stated; one month one day, from August 14, 1779, in Capt. Joseph Richard's company, Col. Gill's regiment, and eight months, from May 11, 1780, in Capt. Caleb Champ-ney's company.""Sarah C. Harbutt, Little Marsh, Pa.; age, 86; pensioned by special act, as daughter of Elijah Weeks, who served two and one-half years, from fall of 1776, as private in Capt. Josiah Smith's company, Col.
Thomas Marshall's regiment of Massachusetts troops.""Rhoda Augusta Thompson, Woodbury, Conn.; age, 83; pensioned by special act, as daughter of Thaddeus Thompson, who served six years from May 20, 1777, as a private in Capt. Jonathan Brown's company, Col. John Lamb's regiment of New York troops."

PACIFIC CLUB
HOLDS RECEPTIONLADIES DAY IS COMBINED WITH A RARE EXHIBITION OF ARTIST SCOTT'S PRODUCTIONS.The reception at the Pacific Club in honor of the ladies yesterday afternoon was a distinct success from a social stand-point and was made doubly so by the magnificent paintings exhibited by Alexander Scott, the English artist who has been here for several months.The attendance was very large and the guests spent most of their time in the reading room examining the splendid productions of Scott's brush. Refreshments were served on the lanals.The pictures shown were of different scenes in tropical countries, India, and the South Seas as well as many familiar Hawaiian places. Some of the pictures of familiar spots in and about Nuuanu valley and the Pali attracted general praise.
